INGERSOLL AT NAPOLEON'S GRAVE.

ia. as second-class matter.]

Robert Ingersoll's allusion to Napoleon contained in his lecture on "Skulls and Replies" is as follows:

"A little while ago I stood by the grave of the old Napoleon-a magnificent tomb of gilt and gold, fit almost for a dead delty—and grzed upon the sarcophagus of black Egyptian mar-ble, where rest at last the ashes of this restless man. I leaned over the balustrade and thought about the career of the greatest soldier of the modern I saw him walk on the banks of the Seine, contemplating suicide—I saw him at Toulon—I saw him putting down the mobs in the streets of Paris-I saw him at the head of the army of Italy—I saw him crossing the bridge of Lodi—I saw him in Egypt in the shadows of the Pyramids—I saw him conquer the Alps and mingle the eagles of France with the eagles of the crags. I saw him at Marengo-at Ulm and Austerlitz. I saw him in Russia, where the infantry of the snow and the cavalry of the wild blast scattered his legious like winter's withered leaves. I saw him at Leipzig in defeat and disaster, driven by a million bayonets back upon Paris-clutched like a wild beast-ban ished to Elba, I saw him escape and retake an empire by the force of his genius. I saw him upon the frightful field of Waterloo, where chance and fate combined to wreck the fortune of their former king. And I saw him at St, Helena, with his hands crossed be-solemn sea. "I thought of the orphans and widows he had made-of the tears that had been shed for his glory, and of the only woman who ever loved him, pushed from his heart by the cold hands of ambition. And I said I would rather have been a French peasant and worn wooden shoes. I would rather have lived in a hut with a vine growing over the door, and the grapes growing purple in the kisses of the autumn sun; I would rather have been that poor peasant with my loving wife by my side, knitting as the day dies out of the sky, with my children upon my knees and their arms about me. FATAL DISEASES AT MANILA.-The Agricultural Department has received from Lieutenant A. P. Hayne, Californ is heavy artillery, the translation of an saticle on agriculture in the Philippines prepared for him by Senor Manuel Del Busto, chief of the agricultural experi ment station in Manila.

In addition to this primary difficulty in securing reliable labor, the agriculturist is confronted at the start with the necessity for an immense amount of work in clearing new land. When this is accomplished and a luxuriant crop raised it is at the mercy of the first typhoon. Besides the typhoon, there is to be feared in certain provinces the "dagudo," or dry land wind, which dries up and destroys vegetation.

"The Leather Trust," said Mr. Dowe, "which has advanced the price of goods 15 per cent., has discharged a large number of its travelers, and intends to reduce the number still further.

"Many salesmen have been called in by the Biscuit Trust to await instructions." The men who are still on the road have been ordered to double their lines, which means that the men called in will be discharged."

I was seriously afflicted with a cough or several years, and last fall had a more severe cough than ever before. I have used many remedies without re-ceiving much relief, and being recommended to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, by a friend, who knowing me to be a poor widow, gave it to me, I tried it, and with the most gratifying results.
